

SEATTLE CHANNEL 2008 Annual Report

SUMMARY

In 2008, SEATTLE CHANNEL continued its award winning practice of putting video to work to build and strengthen community. SEATTLE CHANNEL presents programs on cable television (Channel 21 on Comcast and Broadstripe) and via the Internet to help residents connect with their city. Programming includes series and special features highlighting the diverse civic and cultural landscape of the Pacific Northwest's premier city as well as comprehensive coverage of the City of Seattle's government. SEATTLE CHANNEL's web site (www.seattlechannel.org) offers streaming video worldwide, and includes an archive featuring video on demand of all programs. The station is a Government Access Channel granted to the City of Seattle per Federal law for the purpose of cablecasting government television programs. It is administered by the Seattle Channel unit of the City of Seattle's Department of Information Technology.

Highlights for the year include:

- SEATTLE CHANNEL successfully led the design and building of the media briefing room at the City's new Emergency Operations Center.
- For the second year in a row, SEATTLE CHANNEL was honored to win the first prize in the prestigious Excellence in Government Programming Award from the National Association of Telecommunications Officers and Advisors (NATOA).
- In the last year, SEATTLE CHANNEL continued its commitment to the most thorough coverage of Seattle's local government of any television outlet.
- SEATTLE CHANNEL got ready for high definition television (HDTV) by improving picture quality, by becoming compatible with current broadcast equipment standards, and providing the necessary platform for the transition to HDTV.
- Traffic at SEATTLE CHANNEL website increased by 50 percent in 2008, measured in monthly page views, compared with the same period in 2007.
- SEATTLE CHANNEL's website won first place for Best Government Access Website from the NATOA.
- In 2008, SEATTLE CHANNEL moved from the Real Networks Player to Adobe Flash as a tool to stream television and other video. By doing so, SEATTLE CHANNEL switched to an international standard for creating and storing video that will enable people using our website to use video player software from several vendors to view our award-winning programming.
- SEATTLE CHANNEL produced weekly episodes of several popular TV series, including CityStream, City Inside/Out with C.R. Douglas and Seattle Voices with Eric Liu.
- SEATTLE CHANNEL successfully launched three new programs—Art Zone In Studio with Nancy Guppy, Seattle News Now and City Inside/Out: Council Edition. Two of them won awards during their first season.

- SEATTLE CHANNEL produced a four-part series highlighting Seattle Sister Cities.
- SEATTLE CHANNEL won two Emmy awards from the Northwest Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences for Community Stories.

SEATTLE CHANNEL PRODUCTIONS

SEATTLE CHANNEL completed over 1,100 productions in 2008. Highlights include:

- Nearly 100 events with Mayor Greg Nickels including 8 ASK THE MAYORs, Mayor's Arts Awards, Mayors Small Business Awards and Press Conferences.
- Nearly 400 Council programs, almost all live, including all Committee meetings and Public Hearings presented live on Cable 21 and streaming at seattlechannel.org, and also available via the web anytime as video-on-demand.
- Launched Art Zone in Studio with Nancy Guppy, a half-hour weekly program featuring interviews with artists and performers, reviews and previews of current offerings, and lots of surprises. A new episode premieres every Thursday night at 8:00 p.m. and brings together a local and diverse group of artists and celebrates Seattle thriving arts scene.
- Launched City Inside/Out: Council Edition, a monthly program with three Councilmembers that takes questions from our customers on timely public affairs.
- Went global with a four-part series highlighting four of Seattle Sister Cities: Nantes, France; Christchurch, New Zealand; Perugia, Italy; and Reykjavik, Iceland. These on-location programs documented the City of Seattle's innovative development of relationships with cities around the world.
- Launched Seattle News Now, a weekly summary that allows residents to receive a brief wrap up of the most significant news related to Seattle City government.
- More than 270 new episodes in SEATTLE CHANNEL's weekly and monthly series line-up including:
 - 39 episodes of City Inside/Out with C.R. Douglas, the public affairs show that brings you thoughtful, in-depth reports and discussions about important local issues every week. - SEATTLE CHANNEL also produced in-depth documentaries including: Alden Mason: Artist, a piece chronicling the life of painter Alden Mason, from his early Skagit Valley days as a child who yearned to be an entomologist through his rise as an internationally known Seattle artist; Alfredo Arreguín: Artist, a documentary that captures this award-winning painter's early life in Mexico, his journey to the United States during his formative years, and his eventual coming of age as an artist in Seattle; and John Dimitriou's Jazz Alley takes the viewer behind the scenes at "one of the world's best nightclubs" to learn how for almost three decades, John Dimitriou has made his club into a West Coast hub for all the towering figures in the world of jazz--stars such as Dizzy Gillespie, Oscar Peterson, Betty Carter and Bill Evans.
- SEATTLE CHANNEL began providing video on demand access to the meetings of the Seattle Ethics and Elections Commission, the Alaska Way Viaduct Stakeholders meetings and the Seattle Board of Park Commissioners meetings.
- SEATTLE CHANNEL's award-winning series Community Stories continued production for its 2009 season of sharing stories of unique individuals and organizations making a difference in Seattle's neighborhoods.

SEATTLECHANNEL.ORG

SEATTLE CHANNEL's website continued to evolve during 2008, offering new features and services for users and attracting a rapidly expanding audience. Web highlights for 2008:

- In 2008, SEATTLE CHANNEL's web site, www.seattlechannel.org, won first place honors for Best Government Access Website from the National Association of Telecommunications Officers and Advisors (NATOA).
- In 2008, SEATTLE CHANNEL's web site converted to Adobe Flash as a tool to stream video. By doing so, the Channel switched to an international standard -- MPEG-4 (H.264/AVC) -- for creating and storing video. This enables people using our website to use video player software from several vendors to view videos of Mayoral events and City Council meetings, community programs and other shows that we air for the public every day.

Adobe Flash has other several advantages: 1) Flash will give users an enhanced multi-media experience on SeattleChannel.org; 2) Flash, like Adobe Acrobat Reader, is a virtual standard -- over 95% of computers worldwide have Flash installed; 3) Flash is easy for City employees to use -- it integrates automatically and easily with Internet Explorer; 4) Flash will simplify support that SEATTLE CHANNEL formerly had to provide for three different live video streams; and 5) the Adobe Flash Player is free and can be put on every City desktop computer.

- Traffic at SEATTLE CHANNEL's website grew by 50 percent in 2008, measured in monthly page views, compared with the same period in 2007. Here are the 2008 Web Statistics:
 - 2008 Website Page Views: 5,606,552 (2007: 3,841,717)
 - 2008 Website Sessions: 3,057,304
 - 2008 Videos Streams/Downloads: 494,824
 - Over 1,100 new videos added to the website in 2008

SEATTLE CHANNEL TECHNOLOGY UPGRADES

SEATTLE CHANNEL improved its infrastructure in 2008 to better serve cable viewers and web users. Highlights include:

- SEATTLE CHANNEL was the lead for the design and building of the media briefing room at the City's new Emergency Operations Center. The new room has a complete audio/video/lighting system for broadcasting with accommodations for a number of television news crews and their remote trucks. In the event of an emergency, SEATTLE CHANNEL has a dedicated fiber optic feed that can provide information live to local and national television stations. The Mayor inaugurated the facility with a special broadcast of his show, Ask the Mayor, live from the Emergency Operations Center.
- Phase one of the conversion of SEATTLE CHANNEL infrastructure to become compatible with High Definition Television (HDTV) is complete. This means improved picture quality, compatibility with current broadcast equipment standards, and providing the necessary platform for the transition to High Definition Television (HDTV).

- SEATTLE CHANNEL's studio control room has been upgraded with digital switching and monitoring equipment, which enables production in a wide screen format and improves picture quality.
- SEATTLE CHANNEL is now recording all City Council meetings directly to computer hard drives or to DVDs. This upgrade to the latest technology has resulted in a reduction of both of cost and storage space from the previous method of VHS recordings. SEATTLE CHANNEL is also distributing DVDs of all Council meetings to the Office of the City Clerk to help them fulfill their archival mission.

SEATTLE CHANNEL FINANCIAL SYSTEM UPGRADES

- In order to better utilize and track the precious public dollars that SEATTLE CHANNEL is entrusted with, this year the station's staff created a project cost tracking system to better assess costs by program, series and genre to increase the station's ability to insure appropriate distribution of resources.

SEATTLE CHANNEL AWARDS

SEATTLE CHANNEL received numerous honors from peer organizations in 2008, including:

- SEATTLE CHANNEL won two Emmy Awards at the 45th Annual Northwest Regional Emmy Awards:
